

Written Language Training Course

Why is teaching written language important?

According to the International Dyslexia Association (IDA), “written language is crucial because it allows for explicit instruction and practice in decoding and spelling, which are fundamental skills for students with dyslexia who often struggle with the sound-letter correspondence and accurate representation of words on paper, thereby supporting their overall literacy development; essentially, written language provides a visual representation of the language system that can be systematically taught and reinforced to address dyslexic challenges.”

The course is designed for classroom teachers, school administrators, Special Education teachers, literacy coaches, tutors, speech & language therapists, ELL teachers, and even parents. This course has been provided to many schools and school districts around the country. This is for students in grades 3-12.
